President-Elect Meets the Press

PLAINS, Ga. — Jimmy Carter, looking totally relaxed, held his first news conference as president-elect Thursday, in front of the one-time railroad station that served as his campaign headquarters.

He said all he needs is "to be very aggressive about keeping my promises to the American people." He also said there is "a strong possibility" he may recommend a tax cut for lower income wage earners if the economy is still sluggish when he takes office in January.

Ford Expecting 'Pretty Good Marks'

WASHINGTON — President Ford met Thursday night with his aides to discuss his future plans and scheduled a Cabinet meeting today. He has passed the word he wants a smooth turnover of the White House to the Democrats.

Although he is still feeling "terribly disappointed but not brokenhearted" over his loss to Jimmy Carter, he is consoled by his belief history will give him "pretty good marks" for leading the nation out of the trauma of Watergate and the remaining vestiges of the Vietnam war.

The Jobless Rate Increases Slightly

WASHINGTON — Unemployment rose slightly to 7.9 per cent in October, stubbornly clinging to the same high levels for four straight months, the Labor Department reported today.

The jobless rate was up 0.1 per cent from September and matched the 7.9 per cent for August, highest of the year, the department said.

The figure has been fluctuating in a narrow range between 7.8 and 7.9 per cent since July and there seems little likelihood the lame duck Ford administration can achieve its goal of less than 7 per cent by year's end.

Free Hand Given TV on Violence

LOS ANGELES — U.S. District Court Judge Warren J. Ferguson Thursday in a landmark decision, ruled individual program makers and station managements must be free to make decisions, such as limiting sex and violence in prime time television entertainment shows, on their own, "independent of concern for government reaction" or industry agreements.

Ferguson said the so-called "family hour" was imposed through an unconstitutional collusion in censorship by the government and networks, however, he said, he has no authority to abolish the policy.

Israeli Prices Take Drastic Jump

TEL AVIV, Israel — The Israeli government reduced its subsidies on basic goods Wednesday, causing a drastic increase in the price of food, cooking gas, heating oil, gasoline and diesel fuel. Rates will go up on electricity and water within a week and bus and train fares will rise by the middle of the month.

Reports of the impending increases in prices triggered widespread buying of bread, milk, cheese, eggs, flour and other foods and has left most markets bare.

Legislators Vote Down Shift to Larger Hall

Budget Hearing Won't Be Moved

By CHAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON — The county legislature voted along straight party lines last night against moving the site of its annual public hearing on the proposed budget to larger quarters.

All 21 Republicans voted "no" to an amendment offered by Kingston Democrat John Dwyer to switch the hearing from the county office building to Vanderlyn Hall at Ulster Community College.

Minority Leader Louis Klein, D-Dist. 6, said that his eleven Democratic colleagues favored the move because of "the significant public interest that has been expressed concerning this year's budget proceedings."

The county's legislative chambers can accommodate about 65 closely-seated spectators and is not set up in a way that allows clear views or access to legislators by the public.

The group unanimously approved December 8 at 7 p.m. as the date for the public hearing.

Mary McMickle, president of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association said that WHITA plans "to raise the devil" about the no-move vote, and that her group strongly favors holding the public hearing in comfortable and adequate quarters.

The Republican leadership gave no reason for their refusal to change the meeting place.

In a brief, 35-minute session, the legislature also approved the transfer of some $465,000 in money within the Social Services Department to cover Aid to Dependent Children program costs through the end of this year.

About $129,000 of that sum is actual county cost. The remainder is state and federally reimbursable money.

Commissioner Bernhardt Kramer had asked for the transfers from eleven different departments in his agency after the legislature refused to appropriate any additional money for welfare programs this year.

Kramer says this represents the total surplus funds available in his budget, and that the county will still be $800,000 short by the end of the year.

The legislature's social services committee refused to submit a resolution last night in which Kramer had asked for that additional funding to cover ADC and medicaid program costs.

In other actions, the legislature approved the sale of $400,000 in anticipated revenue notes to fund Ulster Community College programs through the end of the year.

The College needs the money to carry it over until state funding comes through, and will pay the county back, with interest in late December or early next year.

The legislators also approved hiring a clerk in the Social Services Department and agreed to spend $3,000 for communications equipment for the Fire Coordinators and Civil Defense Departments.

They refused to approve three transfers of funds within the Sheriff's Department to pay for overtime salaries, because that agency had not adequately explained the breakdown of money needs to the finance committee.

Peanuts Cast A Pall

KINGSTON — The Great Pumpkin may have passed unnoticed through Ulster County this week, but the Sneaky Peanut is alive and well and stalking the halls of the county office building.

Neatly positioned in front of every legislator's name plate at last night's regular meeting was a perfect, roasted peanut, in its shell.

Not one of the 32 members present asked where the new symbols of Democratic party victory came from — no one even cracked a shell and sampled the presumably southern delicacies.

They just sat there, untouched, like the unshakable truths of death, taxes and Jimmy Carter's smile.

Strange days, indeed, at Fair Street and Main.

All in The Family

The annual public hearing on the county budget is a mere formality as far as the Republican majority in the legislature is concerned. Any doubt about that was dispelled last night when the Republicans — to a man and without public discussion — voted down a move to hold the required public hearing in a place where more than a few dozen citizens could attend.

After this year's financial crises citizen interest in the budget is likely to run high. No doubt that's what prompted Democratic legislator John Dwyer to propose moving the public hearing to larger quarters at Ulster County Community college.

The GOP's unanimous rejection of the proposal will keep the hearing in the county legislative chamber, which has few more than 60 seats for spectators.

Apparently the Republicans either can't believe the public is really interested in commenting on their spending plans or prefer not to hear what the taxpayers have to say.

High School Architect Is Hired

By ROB BORSELLINO

TILLSON — After a week-long series of interviews with eight architectural firms, the Kingston Board of Education last night hired the firm of Sheraden and Scarperi to begin preliminary plans for the renovation of Kingston High School.

According to building committee chairman Joseph Feraca Jr., the architects submitted a plan which met the board's structural criteria and they say they can implement it for considerably less than the $6 million limit the board placed on the project.

"The problem is over," said Feraca, "and it's only a matter of time before the school is up to State Health and Safety standards."

Feraca said he could not detail the specifics, but he did say that the plan includes "new innovations and ideas that were not part of the $7.5 million plan submitted earlier this year by the firm of Halverson and McCullough."

He also noted that the plan will include a cafeteria and library that will be shared by the high school and the Myron J. Micheal Junior High School.

Board members Len Cane and James Penrose were the only two who voted against the resolution.

Cane said he voted no because he was in favor of another one of the eight proposals submitted.

The old building will soon get a facelift, and a less costly one than expected.

"I don't want my vote to be interpreted as being totally opposed to this plan," said Cane, "but I am familiar with the work done by one of the other architectural firms and their proposal was not any more expensive than this one."

Penrose offered no reason for his opposition.

Within the next month the firm is expected to meet with the board's attorney and sign a formal contract. Following that procedure, the plans will be submitted to the State Education Department. (See SCHOOL, page 5)

Gage Bows Out After Guilty Plea

Saugerties Mayor Resigns

SAUGERTIES — Mayor James V. Gage of Saugerties resigned his post Thursday night after pleading guilty earlier in the day in Ulster County Court to four counts of tampering with public records.

The felony charges stemmed from Gage's indictment by an Ulster County Grand Jury in February and a second indictment in August in connection with the disappearance of some $18,000 in village funds during his term as village treasurer, from 1972 to 1974. Gage was elected mayor in 1974 after a 10-year term as clerk-treasurer.

The mayor's resignation came at a special meeting of the board, described by Trustee Charles Steele as "a very, very emotional scene." The board named Trustee John Carrnight as temporary mayor. He will serve in that capacity until Nov. 15 when an interim mayor will be appointed to the position until the upcoming election in April.

Carrnight is a minority party member of the board. He and Steele represent the Village Party. The majority of the board serves under the Sawyer Party label, and the interim mayor is expected to be named from their ranks. If remaining trustees Erika Hinchey, Joan Feldmann, Robert Lehmann and George Turner appoint one of their own, they will also fill the vacated trustee position with a Sawyer Party member from the outside community.

Gage, who will be sentenced Dec. 29, faces a maximum of 28 years in prison. Steele, who had backed the mayor's legal right to remain in office over the months since the charges first surfaced, said none of his colleagues "liked going through" the tension of last night's meeting.

Mrs. Hinchey added, "We knew it was something that had to be done, but it was unpleasant to do. I'm sure many things crossed everyone's mind, and everyone

Woodstock Slashes Welfare Budget

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman Staff

WOODSTOCK — The $200,000 home relief figure that loomed as the largest single item in Woodstock's preliminary 1977 budget has been cut in half.

By paring $100,000 from welfare, moving $30,626 in various other appropriations out of the general fund and into revenue sharing, and eliminating other department requests entirely, the town has reduced the first $1 million budget in its fiscal history by $235,774.29.

The original preliminary budget announced in early October hit $1,292,815.79. The reduced budget presented at a public hearing last night came in at $1,057,041.50. Of that amount, $730,928.50 must be raised by taxes. Although the budget came in lower than had been expected, and was praised by residents at the hearing for "holding the line," taxpayers will face a slight increase.

This year's general fund expenses reflect a 5.77 per cent increase, with the tax rate at $2.63 compared to $2.49 last year. The highway fund shows a 10.5 per cent increase, with the tax rate at $2.47, up from last year's $2.235.

In explaining the slash in welfare, Supervisor Valerie Cadden said, "The town simply can't afford $200,000. If we approved more than $100,000, we would have to cut other services drastically."

In addition to chopping its welfare bill, the board also took the ax to a number of contractual and equipment expenditures. But cuts in the public safety and police budget brought protests from both Police Chief William Waterous and many

County and Its Employees Reach Deadlock On Contract Proposals

KINGSTON — After only one bargaining session the county and its employees have reached a deadlock over new contract proposals and will call in a state mediator to sort things out.

Thomas Phillips, chairman of the Civil Service Employees Association (CSEA) bargaining said this morning the he "didn't see any sense in going any further" with the talks because of what he feels is a solid, no-budge attitude by the county.

"The county has asked the employees to work almost 300 more hours a year, at no increase in pay and with a number of benefit cuts," Phillips said.

Legislator William West, who is heading up the county's negotiating team expressed "shock and surprise that CSEA declared an impasse after only one bargaining session."

West declined comment on any of the specific charges in Phillips' statement until he could personally review a copy of the press release, but did say that he felt there had been room for negotiation between the two parties.

Picket Claims Struck By Management Car

By SID LEAVITT

TOWN OF ULSTER — A union picket was admitted to a hospital early today after an apparent accident near the IBM main entrance involving himself and a vehicle driven by the manager of the cleaning company the union is striking.

Lance J. Sussin, 30, of Kingston, an employee of Emerald Renovators Inc., was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Kingston Hospital after being admitted shortly after the 12:05 a.m. incident.

Sussin apparently suffered no broken bones, and other hospital tests were negative, but Sussin was being held for further observation by his doctor, officials said.

Ulster Police Chief Meyer Levy said he and Patrolman Terry DelMonte found Sussin lying face down on the ground near the plant entrance, "yelling that he was hurt and that he wanted an ambulance."

The driver of the vehicle Sussin said struck him was identified as Brian Keenan, 39, of Hopewell Junction, general manager of Emerald Renovators.

No charges had been filed by press time today, but the incident was under "full investigation," Levy said.

Emerald is one of three Poughkeepsie-based firms against which the Service Employees International Union has picketed since early Wednesday in a contract dispute. IBM uses the firms for cleaning and maintenance service.

Meanwhile, SEIU Local 200 and of-

Ford Rebounds Quickly

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

President Ford, still feeling "terribly disappointed but not brokenhearted" over his loss to Jimmy Carter, is passing the word to his aides that he wants a smooth turnover of executive power to the Democrats.

Ford was keeping a low profile at the White House and clearing his desk for a holiday in the sun at Palm Springs, Calif., starting Sunday.

He met Thursday night with aides to discuss his future plans, and scheduled a Cabinet meeting today — perhaps to thank his official family for its campaign help.

U.N. Ambassador William Scranton, who met with Ford Thursday, said the President was "in great shape in demeanor and outlook."

He said he told Ford he would enjoy the opportunity to be with his family more after he moves out of the White House, and quoted Ford as agreeing, saying, "I'm looking forward to it."

Aides said Ford is "taking all blame" for the election defeat, and soothing the unreconciled. When one aide appeared bitter, Ford reminded him that he "serves the people," not the president of the United States.

Ford himself is consoled by his belief history will give him "pretty good marks" for leading the nation out of the trauma of Watergate and the remaining vestiges of the Vietnam war.

Aides said Susan, 19, was brokenhearted because she "idolizes her father" and did not want to see him hurt. But the feeling at the White House is that the "ordeal of Betty Ford is over."

"She will now be able to lead the life that is conducive to her health," an aide said. During the campaign, the First Lady had several recurrences of her chronic osteo-arthritis neck ailment.

Ford has tapped White House counselor John A. Marsh to handle the arrangements for the transfer of power to Carter.

His personal affairs will be supervised by Maj. Robert Barrett, his military aide in the transition period, who expects to remain with Ford, at least for a time after the inauguration, to help with his papers.

Eventually Ford's presidential papers will be shipped to the University of Michigan, his alma mater.

Aides doubt the Fords will remain in Washington after the inauguration, even though they own a home in nearby Alexandria, Va. He may, however, have an office in a federal building.

Jack Merchant, one of the top agents in the White House Secret Service detail, will be in charge of Ford's protection when he leaves office.

In other developments, the President:

— Announced the recess appointment of John A. Knebel as secretary of Agriculture, succeeding Earl Butz.
— Accepted the resignation of Richard C. Helms as ambassador to Iran, effective after Christmas.

Ex-presidents — whether they served two years or eight years, whether elected or appointed, whether heroes or forced to resign under fire — get an annual pension of $63,000 plus $96,000 a year for staff and office expenses.

By law, past Presidents are paid the same amount as current cabinet members, so their pensions go up if cabinet members get a raise.

They have constant Secret Service protection for the rest of their life; suitable office space, furnished and equipped in a Federal building; and free mail privileges.

Ford, in addition, is due a government retirement pension based on his 25 years in Congress and four years in the Navy. The amount is not known but on the basis of his service would be more than $30,000.

At the Civil Service Commission, Adan Muzik told UPI she would not disclose the figure on Ford's congressional pension "because it's nobody else's business ... under the privacy act."

Carter Feels Victory Is 'Adequate' Mandate

The President and Vice President-Elect in Plains, Ga.

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter says his slim victory margin was typical of U.S. elections and is all he needs "to be very aggressive about keeping my promises to the American people."

In his first news conference as president-elect, Carter also said there is "a strong possibility" he may recommend a tax cut for lower income wage earners if the economy is still sluggish when he takes office in January.

And, speaking now as a prospective president, he seemed to hedge his campaign position on refusing to commit U.S. troops to defend Yugoslavia against Soviet invasion, saying he would be "unlikely" to do so.

The former Georgia governor looked totally relaxed during a half-hour, fresh air news conference conducted on the main street of this tiny hamlet, in front of the onetime railroad station that served as his campaign headquarters.

About 400 townspeople, many wearing warm jackets against the crisp evening air, crowded into the roped-off area surrounding the raised platform where Carter faced the national television cameras.

He seemed to take pains to be gracious toward President Ford and to stress that Ford, not Carter, is still running the country. But he also said his margin of victory over Ford was an "adequate" mandate for him to carry out his promises for tax and welfare reform, government reorganization and other campaign pledges.

"I don't think there was any strong negative reaction against President Ford or his administration," he said when asked why he thought he won Tuesday's balloting. He said many Americans thought Ford, whose competence he questioned throughout the campaign, had done "an excellent job."

"I think many people thought it was time for a change and time to have a more aggressive leadership in Washington," he said, adding that the state of the economy and a hunger for a "restoration of harmony" between the White House and Congress also helped him.

Asked about prospects for another income tax cut soon, he said several of his economic advisers recommend such a cut to stimulate the purchasing power of wage earners "if the economy is still as stagnant next January as it is now."

He made clear no decision has been made on this, but said any such reduction would be aimed at those "on the lower end of the payroll."

On the hypothetical Soviet invasion of Yugoslavia, a reporter reminded him that during his second televised debate with Ford he had ruled out the use of U.S. troops and asked whether as president he might revive that option.

"That's a possibility," he said. "... If the Soviet Union should invade Yugoslavia, this would be an extremely serious breach of the peace ..."

"Whether or not we actually committed troops to Yugoslavia, that would be conjectural. I'd say it would be unlikely," he said. But he added that any such Soviet invasion is also "unlikely."

On other subjects, Carter: — Said he has made no choices yet for his Cabinet and expects to make no announcements until December.

— Said he would choose his White House staff "strictly on merit," and that staff will not interfere in the conduct of government departments.

— Said (Vice President-Elect Walter) Mondale would "play a larger role in the next administration than any previous vice president has ever played," and would also be "a full partner" in preparing Carter's transition to the presidency.

— Assured both U.S. allies and potential "adversaries" they can count on "continuity" in U.S. foreign policy. "We'll be consistent in our search for peace," he said.

After the news conference, Carter and Mondale mingled with the crowd of townspeople and reporters, shaking hands and making small talk.

Area Murder Trial Begins Monday

KINGSTON — One of four summer hotel workers involved in the slaying of a 19-year-old Brooklyn rabbinical student at a camp near Ellenville in July 1975, is scheduled to go on trial in Ulster County Court Monday.

Willie Washington, 25, of New York City, is charged with first degree facilitation in that he allegedly aided 17-year-old Mark Mason of Greenfield Park in the homicide.

Assistant District Attorney Paul Gruner, who will prosecute the case, claims that Mason allegedly fired the shots that killed David Krausz while he was standing talking with two other persons in a lighted area of Camp Rav-Tov, near Ellenville.

The district attorney's office believes Mason, who was riding in a car driven by Washington, fired the fatal bullet from about 200-feet away. Charges against two others, passengers in the car, were dismissed earlier. Complaints had been lodged against Dennis Dunbar, 21 and Jerome Taylor, 23, both of New York City. Police contended they did not intentionally or criminally aid Mason or Washington.

Krausz died of a gunshot wound in the stomach 12 hours after the night attack.

He was reportedly a target chosen at random after the car with the four black males from nearby Utopia Lodge was involved in an altercation with some persons at Camp Rav-Tov.

Washington will be represented in court by Ellenville attorney Albert Lonstein. County Judge Raymond J. Mino will preside.

Mason's case is still pending.

Chamber Opposes the Guard Shift

KINGSTON — "Strong opposition" to a proposal that would shift the area New York National Guard headquarters from Kingston to Poughkeepsie has been registered by the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County's board of directors.

Len Cane, executive vice president of the chamber, cited economic and social reasons against the move in a letter this week to the guard's state commander, Gen. Vito J. Castellano.

Registering the chamber's objections, Cane said there is "substantial opposition" from several other local organizations. The chamber could arrange a public meeting for Castellano to listen to these views, Cane added.

The proposal, at last word still awaiting final approval of the National Guard Bureau in Washington, would shift general headquarters and a headquarters battery of the 1st Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, from Kingston to Poughkeepsie. In return, Kingston would receive the one firing battery now based in Poughkeepsie.

The proposal was authored by the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Otto A. Schaedlich, a Poughkeepsie resident.

The 156th's 1st Battalion, headquartered in Kingston since it was reactivated after World War II, in recent years has been split among Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh. Some trace the military unit's history and colors in Kingston back to the formation of the Band of the Wiltwyck in 1658.

Lt. Col. Schaedlich's plan would move the unit colors to Poughkeepsie.

"In a time frame that magnifies each drain on the economy of Ulster County, a high unemployment county, this unit transfer will further detract from our economic base," Cane's letter said.

"There is no doubt that Kingston and Ulster County will be hurt by the move."

Cane also noted that Kingston's armory is superior to Poughkeepsie's, that county and city civilians have "excellent rapport" with military personnel, and that the local community is "proud of our guard and wants to keep the unit here."

"Contrary to published statements that there is no 'local' opposition to this move, I can assure you that substantial opposition exists," Cane told Gen. Castellano. "You will probably hear from several organizations in the very near future."

Only 15 Pct. of Goal Reached

United Way Heads Still Hopeful

KINGSTON — With only 15 per cent on the way to its goal with its annual fund drive just two weeks from conclusion, the United Way of Ulster County is still feeling "no panic — not yet."

Campaign organizers are still waiting until next week when the large employee group and banking division pledges come in, a spokesman said. Then, "hopefully, we'll have a much better report."

Meanwhile, Ulster County

residents who haven't yet pledged to the 1977 drive either through their employer, campaign volunteers or the United Way office in the Gov. Clinton Hotel are urged to do so, the spokesman said.

The campaign this week totaled $61,868 in pledges, still far short of the $401,000 goal set six weeks ago when the drive started, but preliminary reports from company, bank and group pledges are said to be "very promising."

"There is no panic — not yet. Maybe next week," the spokesman said with a nervous laugh.

Cops Warn of Ticket 'Blitz'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police union delegates have unanimously rejected a proposed city contract for the second time in less than six weeks and are threatening a traffic ticket "blitz" to enforce union demands.

Delegates of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association said Thursday they would not even consider any new contract proposal unless authorities agree to drop charges against members cited for unruly conduct in protest demonstrations.

The delegates threatened a by-the-book ticket-writing spree in all five boroughs as a means of increasing pressure on the fiscally-stricken city.

The delegate assembly, which must vote on any contract before it can go to the membership, rejected a previous proposal on Sept. 30. Despite the defiant declarations of the 300 delegates at a raucous 3½ hour meeting, PBA President Douglas Weaving said he will ask Mayor Abraham D. Beame about the prospects for further talks.

"I hope to sit down today or tomorrow with the mayor and discuss the problems that still exist," Weaving said.

Asked whether off-duty cops will resume their unruly siege of public places and popular events, Weaving replied, "I will not telegraph the PBA's intentions."

A PBA trustee said no decision on public protests was reached at the meeting. Beame called the PBA decision "unfortunate."

"The city has bargained in good faith with the PBA and agreed to a contract which the leadership of the PBA and the city felt to be a fair and equitable settlement, recognizing the serious fiscal limitations within which the city and the police department must operate," the mayor said in a statement.

"It must be clear to all involved that the city has no additional funds nor can the funds that are available be paid without a deferral agreement."

Don't Hitchhike Alone

The death of a young woman who solicited a ride from a stranger late Tuesday night on Route 28 underscores the danger of hitchhiking, especially for women alone.

It's a sad fact that some men take for granted that any woman hitchhiking alone at night is sexually available; it's shocking that such men sometimes feel justified in attempting rape if the woman proves unwilling.

A woman who merely needs a ride can't be blamed for the behavior of a male driver, but that doesn't erase the danger. Women should be aware that hitchhiking alone is inviting serious trouble. They shouldn't do it.

Freeman Readers Write

Rights Group No 'Mockery'

Dear Editor:

April 12, 1976 has long since gone, a busy resort season has past, and I have just become aware of a letter placed in your paper on that date by Maurice D. Hinchey. I would like the opportunity to reply.

Mr. Hinchey spoke of growing disbelief regarding letters from "out of the county" written by representatives of the Constitutional Rights Association, Stanley Christman and John Smigel.

Letters from "out of the county" could easily be avoided if proposed programs were limited to "in the county." Activities affecting someone else's back yard generally bring a response.

Mr. Hinchey associates the CRA with a "mockery." Perusal of the U.S. Constitution fails to unearth any statement not in accord with charter of the organization, which states as its purposes: the preservation of the rights of land owners to make their own land use decisions, the preservation of individual liberty, the preservation of property rights of land owners, the promotion and education of people to preserve the principles of the U.S. Constitution. A copy of the charter is enclosed. Such avowed objectives are hardly a mockery of the U.S. Constitution or of anything else.

Neither John Smigel nor Stanley Christman are developers of anything, or "gougers of the earth." Both have been active farmers. Mr. Smigel still is and Stanley Christman operates a small private resort-golf course. The latter owns no land suitable for development, but also owns no land suitable for control by a remote, or not so remote, agency.

Mr. Hinchey spoke of how the proposed Catskill Park Commission would preserve this great land and natural resource while simultaneously developing recreational and industrial facilities capable of absorbing 12 to 14 per cent of the labor force. That could happen — required permits and engineering agreements alone could absorb the labor of 90 per cent of them.

Exactly how the state government, with its sights focused on the Catskills, is to promote enterprise and "development" via a program of Orwellian regulation has yet to be indicated. England has undergone 30 years of this type of experimentation — the results speak for themselves.

The passage to our posterity of a sense of individuality and industry is a social obligation fully as important as the physical obligation of passing a habitable environment. If in accomplishing the latter we destroy the former, the passage will have been in vain.

Ellenville Ponders Town Power

Dear Editor:

The Ellenville meeting of the Concerned Consumers on Oct. 25 was a highlight in the history of public affairs of the community.

The main topic was municipal ownership of the electric utility. Mayor Elkin, Town Supervisor Franklin Sahler and Belle Sundeen were the principal speakers. All felt something had to be done to stop the financial bleeding of the community by Central Hudson.

Mayor Elkin, a long time opponent of the private utility, and an advocate of municipal ownership, was concerned for the cost of paying for a feasibility study. Such a study, all agreed however, is necessary to determine the pros and cons of municipal ownership.

Members of the audience pointed out that failure to undertake such a study is resulting ever increasing electricity bills.

Supervisor Sahler, while emphasizing the need to fight Central Hudson even more vigorously, raised a number of questions concerning municipal ownership.

Belle Sundeen, a veteran in the contest with Central Hudson and an expert on municipal ownership, supplied many of the answers. For instance, there are over 25 publicly owned utilities in the country, including such cities as Los Angeles and the state of Nebraska.

New York State now has 49 municipally owned plants, and 14 other communities are in the various stages of making studies with a view to taking over their private utilities.

Federal Power Commission figures reveal a saving of 30 to 40 per cent where municipalities own their own plants. In place of local taxes, the record shows that municipal plants contribute more than the equivalent services and free electricity to the villages and townships.

In the discussion Henry Klein gave a review of the recent Poughkeepsie hearings on rate increases requested by Central Hudson. He paid tribute to the rising expertise and participation of the increased number of community organizations which augured well for the continuation of the fight against Central Hudson.

Bob Pownier reported on the approval of the Demonstration Mass Transportation Project by the federal government. He congratulated the Concerned Consumers for their part in this achievement. The project involves the purchase of five mini-buses which will ply secondary roads.

The audience showed concern over the practically non-existent transportation on main roads. Suggestions were made for achieving progress in that direction also. Should it be necessary to go to the county legislature again, Pownier called for numbers of residents to be present again to show their interest.

Law Can't End Atomic Waste

Dear Editor:

We cannot solve our municipal waste problems by legislating them away, yet the nuclear industry would have the American people believe the disposal of radioactive wastes can be solved by federal legislation.

The U.S. has been generating radioactive wastes for 30 years and the problem is still unresolved. Seventy-five million gallons of high-level radioactive wastes and 51 million cubic feet of low-level wastes are now stored in the U.S., including wastes from foreign sources. Just one site, at Hanford, Wash., processed 10 million gallons of liquid wastes in 1975. New York State taxpayers have just been presented 600,000 gallons of high-level wastes at West Valley, by Nuclear Fuel Services, which decided to go out of business at this location. The problem is not legislative — it is technical, and even more important, it is moral.

One proposal for permanent disposal was to shoot the wastes into space. This was abandoned when it was considered that the rocket might malfunction and release the radioactivity into the atmosphere. Can legislation guarantee 99.99 per cent performance by technology?

Another proposal for disposal was for burial in a "stable" geological formation and hoping it stays put for one-half million years. No geological changes in the earth's crust may occur. Can legislation prohibit acts of God 99.99 per cent of the time?

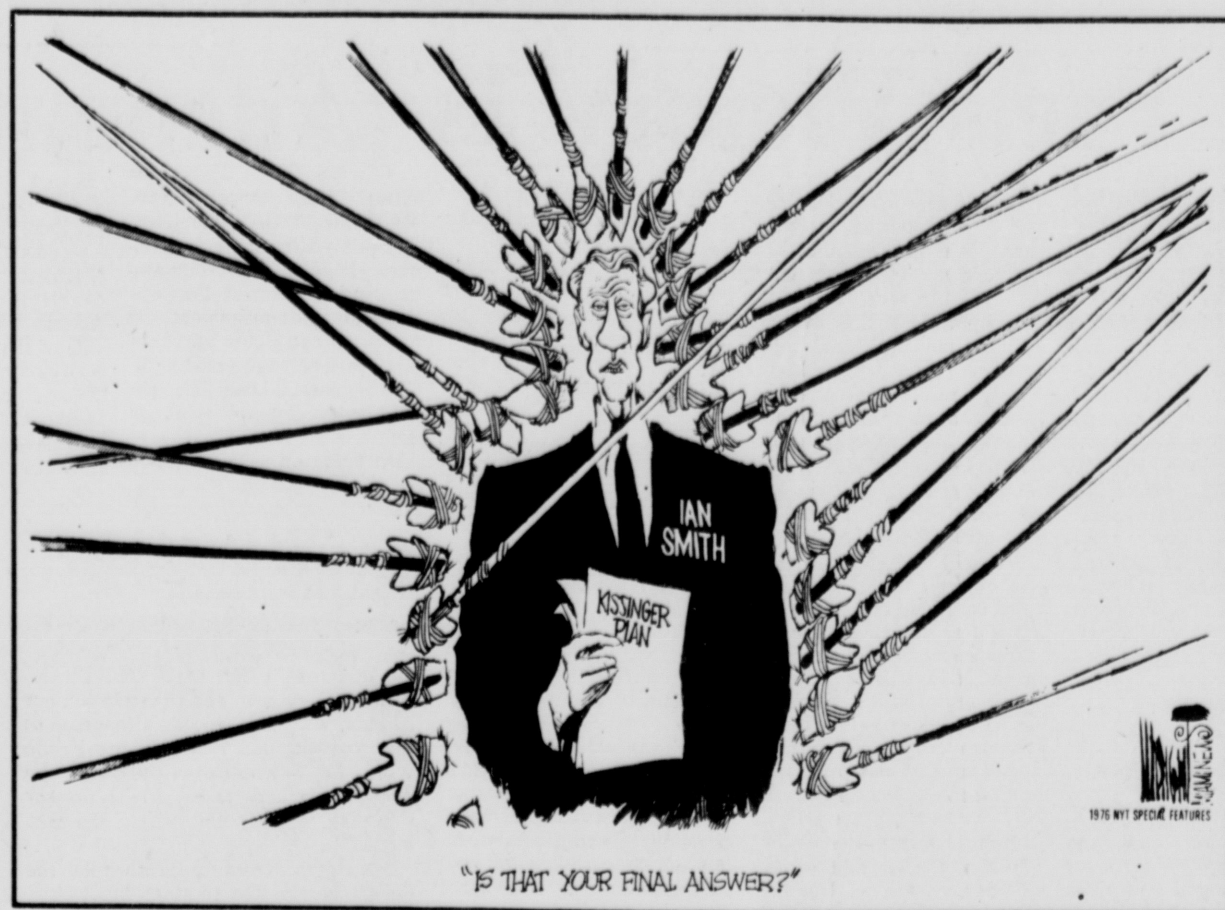

In 1975 the "permanent" storage at Hanford leaked 115,000 gallons of radioactive wastes. "Permanently" buried wastes in Kentucky are leaking into surrounding ground. Borings from the Hudson River show radioactive levels of waste routinely discharged from the Indian Point Nuclear Plant, radioactive wastes that were supposed to wash out to sea, are concentrated at Peekskill in levels 100 times higher than most parts of the river. Can legislation guarantee 99.99 per cent against human error?

On Sept. 13, 1976 the BBC reported that barrels of radioactive wastes disposed of "forever" by dumping in the ocean off San Francisco during the weapons program have giant sponges up to four feet across growing on them. Normally these sponges are four inches across. Scientists say that the creatures appear to be feeding on the radioactive waste which has caused cellular changes and that the sponges are mutants — life forms never seen before. Can legislation prohibit 99.99 per cent the altering of life forms by radiation?

The immorality of leaving lethal wastes that need containment 99.99 per cent for thousands of years cannot be circumvented by legislation, given a quick-fix by technology, nor will a public relations program and qualified statements by the nuclear industry lessen our responsibility to future generations. The question remains for the people to decide. Do we want to leave such a lethal legacy? Do we even have a right to consider it?

Large Green Grant Has Victims

WASHINGTON - There is a large, glossy pamphlet out that tells you how to get taxpayer money to mess around with other people's children. Put out by the National Youth Alternatives Project, this publication is called "Stalking the Large Green Grant: A Fund Raising Manual For Youth Serving Agencies," and on its cover there is a blurb of part of a Federal Reserve note.

The Youth Alternatives Project centers its attention on runaways and works with shelters which have been established for them. With names like Yellow Brick Road, Total Awareness, The Looking Glass Family Crisis Intervention Center, they conjure up a vision of a dreadful melange of the viler sort of ordained youth worker, charlatans from the (ugh) human potential movement, the more witless sort of social worker, and reformed drug addicts who can't throw off the juvenalia of the 1960's.

Like many of the earlier entrepreneurs in social work, the people building up this new industry are honest by their lights and oblivious to the objections that ought to be raised at using tax money or even tax-exempt money for these purposes. After all, running away from home isn't a serious problem unless the rest of us make it one. If minimum wage and health, safety and other laws aren't used as a barrier to employment, it's difficult to see why the state (that is, the government) should be concerned about runaways, at least those over a certain age. What's important is that runaways, like other young people who stop their schooling, are provided a practical way to resume their studies after they've had their fun and their fling. A system of shelters stocked with clergymen, various species of shrinks and social workers most likely acts to encourage runaways.

The alarming thing about Stalking the Large Green Grant is the number, variety and nature of the federal giveaway programs aimed toward youth. When you have federal government bureaus with names like the Office of Youth Development, it is hard to foresee any limit to the intervention of civil service functionaries in the relationship between older children and their families. Take the Michigan Coalition of Runaway Services, an entity which didn't exist four years ago and now has a director, an assistant director, a technical assistant specialist, a part-time training and another part-time research specialist along with a budget that has moved up from zero to close to half a million. Stalking the Large Green Grant tells us that: "The coalition members have recently decided that providing runaway services should be seen as only part of its function, and that the coalition should be more involved with young people's problems and needs in general."

The classic way for hungry social workers and others engaged in the tax-supported doing of good is to pathologize the victims, that is the "clients" or recipients of these services. Thus old age, which was once a state of life through which most of us go in our journeys to the grave, has been converted into a pathological condition with its programs, medical, social, workical and psychological. The pathologization of childhood is already well-advanced, and, if you think I'm engaging in hyperbole, I cite here the case of James, a school boy sentenced to drug medication for hyperkinesis although he displayed none of the symptoms of the disease. How is this possible? Here is a quote from the report of the psychiatrist who examined James:

"James showed no hyperactivity either in my office or in the waiting room. He was not restless or fidgety. His attention and concentration were good, and he wasn't distractable. There was no evidence of thought or affect disorder. Recommendation: Acceptance for treatment program as well as pharmacotherapeutic treatment based on the diagnosis of hyperkinetic reaction of childhood."

No symptoms, no clinical reason to think the child had the disease, and he's put in therapy and on medication anyway. A neurologist and a psychologist who also examined James came to the same conclusion, namely that the boy displayed no sign of hyperkinesis; they also recommended him for treatment.

This case is cited by Richard A. Cloward and Frances Fox Piven in a recently published book called "Radical Social Work" (Pantheon, 1976, $2.95 paperback). They also included an example of a social agency, originally set up to provide recreation for kids, deciding it could get more money getting into mental health, a huge growth industry. The agency began making diagnoses of the kids who came there to play basketball although, in the words of a social worker who tried to stop what was going on, "No client had been advised of the agency's new mental health direction, or of the agency's intention of 'cooperating' with the appropriate city and state agency by sending in diagnoses... Since the kids came here for recreation it was unfair for them to be diagnosed. When I send my own kid to camp or to the 'Y' to swim, etc., I would be very disturbed about the existence of such a file on people who come and utilize services innocently, and then have a folder made up on them that can be damaging to them in later life."

When it isn't immediately possible to convince people that what was once normal, ordinary and usual - i.e., childhood, youth, old age - is now pathological, it is done by diagnosing someone and thereby putting him in the shadow of institutional and governmental supervision the rest of his life.

It is certainly true that parents have never felt less able to do for their children, to provide a cocoon and an environment in which their children will grow up absorbing their values and emulating their behavior. Governmental action of these kinds accelerates the weakening of family and community as the primary means of training and controlling the young.

First you rearrange a society to make it difficult for the family to carry out its traditional job, then you further incapacitate it by encouraging family members to look to institutions, outside agencies and the government itself to perform the family's functions and you tax the family to pay for it.

Broadway, Class And Toots

Once upon a time, dear child, there was a place called Broadway. It was a crooked street in a crooked city with straight arrow crooks. It is gone now, long gone, but once it was an avenue of brazen lights and night clubs and characters such as you would not believe.

One remains. No one knows why. He is Toots Shor and he sits on a tall stool behind the doorway of a restaurant at 1 Pennsylvania Plaza and says "hello." He will hello anybody because he must make a buck and the provincials desire to say hello to the last of the Broadwayites.

When Broadway was Broadway, Mr. Shor was nothing. He was a big kid out of South Philadelphia who earned $50 a week as a bouncer for three speakeasies. He knew Frank Costello and Justice Frank Murphy, and Mark Hellinger, and Frenchy DeMange and Tommy Noonan and Cardinal Spellman and all the sports figures in the world.

If you know not what class is, you do not comprehend. Class was everything. When Noonan went to the can, Mr. Shor hired a Carey Cadillac every Saturday and drove 190 miles to a Pennsylvania penitentiary to bring Mr. Noonan a basket of fruit, a boiled ham and roast beef.

When Toots opened a restaurant, he employed a character as purchasing agent who stole $300 a week. Mr. Shor refused to fire him because he was a relative of a good friend. This too is class. One time Cardinal Spellman had a formal dinner for friends. He invited Shor, the Jew, to sit on his right because, he said, he wanted to discuss baseball.

Broadway and class are difficult to define. The first is a state of mind, the second is expensive insanity. When Shor opened his first restaurant - all three were disasters - he had a maitre d' and three captains who showed suckers to their tables. When the jernt closed at 3 a.m., the quartet was irritated that Toots did not offer them a drink. In anger, they took a cab to Floyd Bennett Field, where, it so happened, a boozery was still open. When it closed, they took a plane to Chicago, where, it was rumored, there was a place which served drinks around the clock.

They drank for three days. When they returned, they put on their dinner jackets, their black bow ties, and showed people to proper tables. Toots watched. It went on for a half-hour. Then the captain of waiters begged, "Toots! Say something to us! Say anything."

Shor scowled. "I'll say something. Why the hell didn't you guys take me with you?" Class. Another time, Bob Considine was at the bar with a group of book writers. He twirled his drink in its stain and murmured, "Jim Bishop is in the Middle East. He has another bestseller."

Toots, who couldn't get through a comic book without a crayon, said, "Howdy know?" "Because," said Considine, "he is researching a book called 'The Day Christ Died' and he has just discovered that Jesus had a dog."

Broadway was Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll and A.H. Woods and B.A. Rolfe and La Vie en Rose and the Copacabana and Joe E. Lewis and Ethel Merman and Larry Fay and Helen Morgan and Richard Bennett and a lot of people of whom you and I never heard.

Two of the better drinkers were Jimmy Cannon, a sports writer, and Jackie Gleason, a towering talent. They challenged each other in drinking bouts at Shor's and, drink for drink, Gleason won.

The Capitol-Korea Connection

WASHINGTON — The South Korean effort to seduce members of Congress has been two-tiered. Rev. Sun Myung Moon, the Korean holy man, took the high, ecclesiastical road, and Tongsun Park, a Korean entrepreneur, followed the low, wayward road.

Both men have been tied to the South Korean lobbying campaign by the Washington Post, which cited "electronic evidence." According to the Post, a tape recording apparently exists of a discussion between South Korea's President Park Chung Hee, Moon aide Park Bo Hi and the shadowy Tongsun Park.

At the meeting, the three men worked out "a plan to influence U.S. congressmen," the Washington Post reported.

The South Korean government has denied any connection between President Park and entrepreneur Park. Moon's man has denied the meeting ever took place and has challenged his accusers to produce the alleged recording. There have also been over-the-shoulder denials from Tongsun Park at airports from Tokyo to Paris.

Both the ecclesiastic and the entrepreneur, nevertheless, suddenly became active on Capitol Hill in the early 1970s. By the beginning of this year, we were able to count 19 Moon missionaries operating on Capitol Hill. We reported on Jan. 12, 1976: "They stroll the hallways daily, buttonholing senators and congressmen, offering free trips and other inducements."

Moon himself made two evangelical appearances on Capitol Hill before our calls made it impossible for him to find a sponsor who would arrange a room for him. At no time did we question his right to deliver a religious message; we were troubled only by the political overtones. Congressmen reported to us, for example, that Moon missionaries had offered them free trips to Korea.

Those who heard Moon preach on Capitol Hill say he delivered a strong anti-Communist message, laced with Christian philosophy. They recall that he linked the United States, Israel and South Korea as the three great bulwarks against communism. He also defended Richard Nixon during the Watergate crisis.

He spoke in Korean, with Park Bo Hi delivering the translations. Koreans told us that Moon's remarks were often rambling and ambiguous, but the translations invariably were precise and pointed. Our sources have the impression that Park, indeed, is the Rasputin behind the benevolent, smiling Moon.

Each of the evangelist's appearances on Capitol Hill was attended by about 100 people. Perhaps 15 to 20 were members of Congress, the remainder aides and secretaries. Rep. Bill Chappel Jr., D-Fla., introduced Moon at the first rally; Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., made the second introduction.

The Moon movement's biggest catch in Congress was House Speaker Carl Albert. We reported on Dec. 9, 1975, that Susan Bergman, a young, hazel-eyed disciple of the Korean religious-political cultist, had developed a curious relationship with the powerful speaker.

In the mornings, she would greet him in the hallway and present him with flowers. Then she would brew Ginseng tea for him in the small kitchen down the hall from his office. She would serve it to him in the speaker's ornate chambers, where she stayed for an hour or two each morning.

When the speaker left to preside over the House, sweet Susan would often appear in the House gallery in the special section reserved for congressmen's families. She would watch the speaker in action hour upon hour.

Albert described the Moon missionary to us as "just a nice girl, a very nice girl, a Jewish girl from New York. She got all hepped up on the Lord Jesus and she just wants to share it. I think that's a nice thing. She's trying to convert me." As he talked, we noticed a black-covered, gold-trimmed copy of Moon's catechism, "Divine Principle," on the speaker's shelf.

While the Rev. Moon quoted the Bible to religious congressmen, Tongsun Park allegedly passed out cash and gifts to the irreligious. The Washington Post, quoting federal investigators, has charged that he distributed between $500,000 and $1 million each year to congressmen and other Washington officials.

We first got wind of Park's activities in early 1974 when we caught him on a strange trip with Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif. We told the story on April 1, 1974.

A classified cable from the U.S. embassy in Sana, Yemen, reported that the congressman "was joined here by a Mr. Park, a former South Korean national engaged in shipping, apparently political lobbying in Washington."

The curious pair also visited Saudi Arabia and Egypt. Indeed, an obliging State Dept. arranged accommodations for the Korean operator.

In a classified cable to the various embassies, the department asked "each post except Cairo" to ensconce Park in a "single room located next to or near room reserved for" the congressman. In Cairo, telegraphed State, "Mr. Park requests a suite on the river side of the Hilton."

We asked Park why he happened to be touring the Middle East with a congressman. They traveled together, said Park, because Hanna "is like my brother."

We also learned that Park was entertaining members of Congress in the posh, exclusive Georgetown Club, which he established in Washington.

Despite these reports in 1974, the State Dept. didn't get around to investigating Tongsun Park's activities until November 1975.

partment for approval, which Feraca expects they will get.

"As far as I can see," said Feraca, "there is no reason why the state will not go along with the plan. We also intend to seek federal funding under the Public Works Act to help defray the cost to the district. We hope to be able to present this plan to the public within the next month."

If all goes according to schedule, the project is expected to go to bid by the spring with an eye toward completion in the spring of 1978.

The board also announced that the 30-acre Lake Katrine property, purchased several years ago when the Board planned to build a new high school, is up for sale for the same price at which it was purchased: $9,400 an acre.

The announcement that Assistant Superintendent George Washbourne was being rehired for a three-year period prompted remarks from board member Ward Todd who said that the district owes Washbourne a debt of gratitude for his hard work and concern for the district.

probably would have liked to have said something."

Gage kept his part of the proceedings brief. He submitted a two-page written statement to the board, offered his official resignation, and left. Board members, taking their cue from him, remained silent on the matter.

Neither Gage nor his attorney, Thomas G. Rea Jr., have commented on the mayor's guilty plea yesterday. Only short weeks ago, Gage said he had no intention of resigning his office as mayor. The board and District Attorney Francis J. Vogt had taken no action to remove him on the grounds that, under state law, he could remain in office under the alleged charges until proven guilty.

Vogt said his investigation had shown that Gage had not properly entered tax funds on tax receipt records. The records had been falsified, he said, through a system that showed people paying taxes on a particular day, but failed to record checks on the village tax deposit record.

Two Injured in Saugerties Fire

SAUGERTIES—Two men were injured in a house fire Thursday afternoon on the West Saugerties Road, Saugerties.

Nikolai Kalenik, a resident of the home owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Messick, sustained third degree burns to the right hand. He is the father of Mrs. Messick.

Fireman Steven Cook of Centerville-Cedar Grove Fire Company, also sustained injury when he was hit in the head with a fire hose nozzle. Neither man was hospitalized.

The 5 p.m. blaze reportedly started when a kerosene stove backed up. A bedroom and back porch were damaged but firemen were able to confine the flames to that area.

Arrest for Calls

A series on ongoing harassing and obscene telephone calls in the Town of Ulster, under investigation by Police Chief Meyer Levy, culminated in the arrest Thursday of 17-year-old Eric Genthner of Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine. Residents of the town had complained to police of having received phone calls in which the caller either used foul language or hung up on those answering the phone.

Genthner's arrest followed the placing of five such calls to a Yarmouth Street resident. Genthner was scheduled to appear before Town of Kingston Justice Richard Albersstadt.

The Long Haul

Three Is a Crowd In River Chapel

BAYOU GOULA, La. (UPI) — Three's a crowd in the Chapel of the Madonna.

The white weatherboard chapel facing a levee on the Mississippi River Road is barely 10-by-14 feet.

Each Aug. 15, on the Feast of the Assumption, the Rev. Lester Schexnayder sets up a table on the concrete slab in front and says mass for 300 to 400 persons who sit on folding chairs.

"It would be cramped in there, especially with two altar boys and a commentator," said Schexnayder, Pastor of Our Lady of Prompt Succor Church in White Castle, six miles downriver.

"In the early years the priest said the mass in there, facing the altar and not the people. The priest and the two altar boys, they were the only ones who could fit."

The Vatican Council eased the problem when it changed the mass to have priests face their congregations.

The annual mass is the only ritual performed at the chapel although it is always open to the public. The double door is kept locked, but a key is housed in a chest-high box outside.

The mass is said to fulfill a promise made by Anthony Gullo who built the chapel in 1905. Gullo's son was sick and near death. He prayed to the Blessed Virgin and promised to build a chapel for her if the boy survived. The son recovered, and Gullo imported a marble Madonna from Italy.

Neighbors helped build the chapel, originally an octagonal eight-by-five feet structure on the riverside. It was moved back to the edge of a sugar cane field when the levees were built.

A hurricane in the 1920s demolished the original building. The enlarged version was built on the same spot.

Rita Zito, 65, has been caretaker of the chapel for 16 years, walking a quarter mile up the River Road every day to check the candles.

"I didn't want to take it," she said, "but my dad, when he was living, said to try it for one year. And I didn't want to leave it after that. It's just a pleasure to fool with it."

No Hero Just Jobless

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Recovering from a near-fatal bullet wound suffered while trying to foil a robbery, Paul Collins says he is no hero — only a young man looking for work.

The Troy, N.Y., resident walked into a Broad Street pharmacy Oct. 19 to make a telephone call. Two men were on the way out.

The pharmacist shouted: "Stop them, those two are robbers!"

Collins, 24, is fuzzy about what happened but witnesses said he extended his arms, blocking the door.

He was shot in the stomach by the fleeing robbers, who were caught by police after a high speed chase.

"When I moved, I guess the one near me thought I was trying to grab him. Next thing I knew, I was shot. It was only two or three feet. He couldn't miss," Collins said Thursday.

For a few minutes, doctors said he was just about dead. Now he is recovering in St.

Joseph's Hospital after 10 days of intensive care.

"I guess I was almost in the grave, but he (Dr. Michael Barrett of Providence), reached down and pulled me out," Collins said. "How do you ever thank a man for doing something like that?"

Collins came here two months ago when work was slack at home. He left his wife, Sandy, at her job and began looking for work, staying with his brother.

With nearly two years of college accounting, Collins found work managing a convenience food store but was fired a few weeks ago. He said he does not understand why.

Police said the delay at the doorway may have been a big factor in the eventual capture of the suspects. Collins refuses to take credit for it.

He said it was just a reflex action if he raised his arms and blocked the door.

"If I helped, that's great, but I don't remember trying to be a hero," he said.

Israel's Crisis Leads to Price Hikes

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Word of a drastic rise in prices this week left shoppers facing empty shelves in supermarkets and grocery stores across Israel.

"It happens every time," said Tziona Hanania, who was out of luck when she stopped at a store in the village of Beit Shemesh the day before the government cut price supports Wednesday by 20 per cent.

Reports of impending increases triggered widespread buying of bread, milk, cheese, eggs, flour and other foods. The price of cooking gas, heating oil, gasoline and diesel fuel went up 11 per cent. Bus and train fares will go up 20 per cent by the middle of the month.

Electricity and water rates will go up by 11 per cent in a week as part of the general increase, which led economic observers to predict further price hikes because products will cost more to manufacture. The cut was the second this year, adding up to a 45 per cent increase in prices. Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz first wanted to slash the subsidies by twice as much, but was forced to compromise.

He said the cuts would mean a saving of only $42 million for the government, which needs $100 million to get through the fiscal year.

The rest will have to be made up by cutbacks in the various ministries and their services and drawing on foreign currency reserves, he said.

The subsidies are made in an effort to keep basic goods within the budget of poor and middle-income Israelis, who suffer perhaps the toughest taxation in the world, more than 50 per cent of many incomes.

The money goes to producers such as dairies, refineries and others to make up for the low prices required.

Major increases are supposed to be approved by a committee including government, private enterprise and labor, but union representatives walked out on the latest talks.

The unions — controlled by the same Labor party that runs the government — want a long-term agreement to keep subsidies as high as possible but allow for gradual cuts. They see a minimum of somewhere near 25 per cent of actual cost to be covered by price supports.

FDA Questions Flavor Enhancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration is questioning the safety of the flavor enhancer monosodium glutamate and is suggesting that caffeine levels in cola drinks may need to be reduced.

A tentative review of food additives by the FDA also recommended that BHT, a preservative used to keep fats in foods from spoiling, be allowed to remain in use at present levels pending more study.

The results are part of a review of more than 500 ingredients, which began in 1969. The studies are commissioned by the FDA, which later will make decisions on whether the ingredients should be left on the market, restricted, or banned entirely.

The study said MSG should not be used in baby or junior food at all because animal studies suggest the newly born may be subject to brain damage from it. The baby food industry stopped using MSG voluntarily in 1970 but the report, if adopted by the FDA, would make the move mandatory.

The report said any conclusion that MSG is safe for adults, in whose diet it appears at the rate of 200 milligrams a day, should be "guarded."

"Answers to questions of possible risk to the public from ingestion of glutamates as added food ingredients require more definitive studies..." the report said.

"Whether glutamates ingested in amounts similar to those added to foods can produce significant untoward effects in man has not been established," it added, calling for studies on the long-term impact of the additive.

DEAR ABBY

Cousin's Wife Wants Him to Keep his Mouth Shut

DEAR ABBY: I work with a utility crew, and recently, after completing a job on the outskirts of a large city, the foreman took us into a nearby seedy-looking restaurant for a bite to eat.

In this place was a bar, and there seated on a bar stool was my cousin's wife with a couple of characters admiring her knees! When she recognized me, she couldn't have been more embarrassed than I was. We're all in our early 30s and see each other when the family gets together.

Anyway, that night she phoned me in a half-threatening manner and told me to keep my mouth shut. But before she rang off, her tone changed, and she said she'd consider it a favor if I didn't say anything and she would return the favor if I so wished.

What would you do, Abby, if you were a MAN?—ILLINOIS

DEAR ILLINOIS: If I were a man, I'd tell her she didn't owe me any favors, and because I was also a gentleman, she didn't have to tell me to keep my mouth shut.

DEAR ABBY: Seven months ago I lost my first baby. He was only 6 weeks old. It left me heartbroken.

In the last six months, five members of my husband's family have become pregnant, and pregnancies have become the No. 1 topic at all our family gatherings.

I am very happy for those concerned, but it also makes me feel very sad and uncomfortable to sit among five expectant mothers. It brings back so many painful memories I would rather forget. I realize that these conversations weren't meant to depress me, but they do. I have tried hard to overcome my feelings of envy and resentment, but have decided that the best thing to do is just stay away from these family gatherings.

My husband thinks I'm being childish and self-pitying. What do you think? How can I solve my problem?—RAGGEDY ANN

DEAR ANN: Your feelings of envy, resentment and depression are understandable, but only by facing life's disappointments and learning to cope with them will you grow strong enough to overcome them. You may need professional help as you turn the corner. It's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my love life. I'm only 16, but I know a lot for my age.

My boyfriend heard a lot of dirty rumors about me at the pool hall and he believes them. Those rumors are not true, but he wouldn't even let me explain.

How can I get him back?—HURT HEART

DEAR HURT: If he believes those dirty rumors, you probably can't.

A little unasked-for advice, honey: A boy who would write you off without giving you a chance to explain isn't worth the heartache. Forget him.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope.

Music, Reception, Autographing Session Set

WOODSTOCK—The groovy, top 40 sounds of Tuesday's Child will return to the Woodstock Town Hall, Saturday, Nov. 6, 8 p.m., when they will play free of charge for the entertainment and dancing of Woodstock and Ontario teenagers, grades 7 to 12.

Tuesday's Child, a band composed mostly of musicians from Ulster County, has been preparing for tour. Lead singer, Joe Milahn, is supported by seven top musicians on a wide range of instruments, from brass to electric guitar to keyboard. Their repertoire is impressively varied with performances of numbers by Elton John, Chicago, and others.

This free appearance in Woodstock has been made possible through the arrangement of Musicians Local 215. There will also be free cider and doughnuts. Information may be obtained from Henry Sykes, Woodstock Recreation Committee.

lery of July and August will show drawings by members of the faculty of Bard College, including work of Alan Cote, Jacob Grossberg, Matt Phillips, Murray Reich and Jim Sullivan. There will be an opening reception Saturday, Nov. 6, from 3 to 6 p.m.

The Gallery is open Friday through Monday from 1 to 6 p.m. Parking is available in the Tinker Street Cinema Lot.

RHINEBECK—Collette Dowling who wrote the controversial article, "Getting Out," published last spring in the New York Times, about her move from New York City to Rhinebeck, will be at the Rhinebeck Book Centre, Saturday, Nov. 6, from 11 a.m. to 3 o'clock. She will autograph copies of her new book, "How to Love a Member of the Opposite Sex: a Memoir."

Her new book, a non-fiction, first person account of her Catholic childhood, her marriage, separation, and painful emergence into an independent and freely loving woman, will undoubtedly prove just as controversial.

Bank, Investment Firm to Back Bond Issue

Big MAC Icejam May Break Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — A bank and an investment firm, acting jointly in what may be a major break in New York's fiscal icejam, have agreed to underwrite the $250 million Municipal Assistance Corp. bond issue that went on sale Monday.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame said Thursday the investment firm of Salomon Brothers and the Morgan Guaranty Trust agreed on an interest rate of 10 1/4 per cent, lower than the 10 1/2 per cent the city had expected.

A mayoral spokesman explained that Salomon Brothers and Morgan Guaranty agreed in effect to market the bonds for the city and buy for themselves whatever bonds they cannot sell.

When the bonds went on sale, the city intended to put only $110 million of them on the public market. The sale announced last Friday began with the sale of $39 million in bonds.

Beame said the decision by Salomon Brothers and Morgan Guaranty to underwrite the entire offering "reopened the market for MAC bonds, which had been hoped for a long, long time. It certainly is a good move."

Monday was the first time since August 1975 the city had tried to float MAC bonds, which were created to help the city through its continuing financial crisis.

In Albany, Gov. Hugh L. Carey reacted to the announcement by saying "the state has been made whole on the credit lifeline that the state extended to the city in its darkest hour."

Noting that the $250 million sale will enable MAC to repay the last installment of a $750 million state advance made last year, Carey said, "The extraordinary action taken by the state has been vindicated."

But Judge Can't Abolish Policy

'Family Hour' is Illegal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The "family hour" limiting sex and violence in prime time television entertainment shows was imposed through an unconstitutional collusion in censorship by the government and networks, a federal court judge ruled.

policy — limiting sex and violence between 7 and 9 p.m. — through the National Association of Broadcasters.

"The desirability or undesirability of the family viewing policy is not the issue," Ferguson said.

executives to Washington for unusual meetings to express his concern. But the network chiefs insisted they adopted the rules on their own, not because of government pressure.

The judge ruled however that FCC "pressure in this case was persistent, pronounced and unmistakable."

Ferguson ruled that one of the plaintiffs — Norman Lear, producer of "All in the Family" and other topical humor series — was entitled to damages, to be determined later, because the popular show was shifted out of its audience pulling slot at 8 p.m. Saturday nights.

He turned down Lear's appeal for an immediate $10 million judgment and an order restoring Archie Bunker to prime time Saturday night, on the same grounds that he used in ruling against the networks — that the government has no authority to make programming decisions.

"Censorship by government or privately created review boards cannot be tolerated."

The judge agreed with the charge by the program makers that Richard Wiley, chairman of the FCC, "threatened the industry with regulatory action if it did not adopt the essence of his scheduling proposals."

Wiley and the heads of the three networks conceded in testimony during the lengthy trial that Wiley — reportedly under pressure from Congress — summoned the television

But U.S. District Court Judge Warren J. Ferguson declared he has no authority to abolish the policy — or bring Archie Bunker back to Saturday night.

Individual program makers and station managements must be free to make such decisions on their own, "independent of concern for government reaction" or industry agreements, Ferguson ruled in a landmark decision Thursday.

Ferguson upheld a complaint by television writers, directors and other program makers that the Federal Communications Commission illegally pressured the three major networks into adopting the

This Could Be THE Night for Kingston Gridders

KINGSTON—Tonight could be the night that Kingston High School wins its first Dutchess County Scholastic League football title. And it can do it without raising a sweat, without making a tackle, without forcing a fumble. It doesn't even have to score any points.

All it takes is for Lourdes to upset Roosevelt in tonight's game at the Presidents' field. A Roosevelt loss would drop it to 5-2 and assure the Tigers of their first title even if the 7-0 squad should be upset at Arlington next week.

A Roosevelt win, however, would make the Presidents 6-1 and increase the importance of the Kingston-Arlington and Roosevelt-John Jay games on Nov. 13.

In other DCSL action Saturday, Ketcham is at Poughkeepsie, Arlington is at John Jay and in a battle of winless teams, Beacon goes to Saugerties.

The Tigers, who have clinched at least a tie for the DCSL crown, have the week off.

The big matchup in the Ulster County Athletic League will be at Rondout Valley (5-1-1) when Highland (6-1) pays a visit Saturday. The other games include Red Hook at Onteora, Wallkill at Liberty, Marlboro at Ellenville and New Paltz at Pine Bush.

Kingston, of course, will be out in full force rooting for an FDR upset tonight. The peculiarities of the schedule and the refusal of Roosevelt to fold have created the possible gift situation. If it means anything, Kingston beat Roosevelt, 27-8, but conquered Lourdes by seven fewer points, 24-12. And Lourdes is coming off a big, 53-14 win over John Jay last week. Roosevelt topped Ketcham, 27-14.

For statistical freaks, the Tigers have outscored their seven opponents, 218-32 for an average game score of 31-4½.

The Highland-Rondout battle has all sorts of interesting angles. The Big Blue must not only face the Ganders this week, but they travel to Red Hook next week, the team that upset Rondout two weeks ago, 12-8. Highland has found a way to beat everybody except Wallkill this year and will be hungry in its final two games, hoping for a miracle upset by either Liberty or Ellenville over Wallkill for a share of the UCL title.

The Panthers, 6-0-1, should have little trouble in beating the league's bottom two teams, though, and Highland coach Lem Atkins has conceded this fact. He's just taking things one game at a time.

"Rondout is a tough team and we're gonna have our hands full," said Atkins. "That Tab Lewis is a good runner and Paris Perry is having a good year at quarterback. Dave McBride's got speed and Pete Fiore is a good wingback."

Atkins had described the Ganders' league-leading offense that has scored 176 points. The Ganders' defense is No. 2, yielding 53 points and the fewest yards (1,015).

Highland is No. 1 in defense (38 points) and is tops in interceptions (11) and fumbles recovered (17).

"Yes, our defense has been able to get the turnovers," said Atkins, citing players such as tackle Kevin Hansut, linebackers Louis Morales and Dave Will and cornerbacks Kevin Colabella and Joe Passante. "The defense has been our strong point and has been very instrumental in our victories."

The Big Blue is known for ball control, but this year they've gone to the air with an unusual flair, gaining 587 yards on 37 of 81 in passing. "We'll probably set school records for attempts, completions and receiving," said Atkins.

Bruce McCarthy and Steve Baines are the pass catchers, and Baines and Colabella do the bulk of the running.

"Highland is always a good game," said Rondout coach John (Mickey) Million. "I think we got back on the track in the New Paltz game. We played a better second half than the first half."

Rondout beat New Paltz, 20-13, last Saturday but had to come from behind to do it. Whether the loss to Red Hook signaled a comedown for Rondout against the Hugies and subsequent games, only Saturday's contest will tell.

Only Players Can Win at Owners' 'Blind Man's Bluff'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charlie Finley labeled it "a den of thieves all trying to cut one another's throats." M. Donald Grant said it was a lot like "blind man's bluff." Bill Campbell said he felt like "a slave being auctioned off."

Everyone, however, agreed baseball's first ever "multi-million dollar grab bag," more properly known as the re-entry draft, will be able to be better assessed in the upcoming weeks of negotiations between the 22 free agents selected and a wary group of major league clubowners.

"We have no conception of what the results of this thing will be," said Grant, board chairman of the New York Mets. "It's like a game of blind man's bluff."

Although no immediate signings are expected from the Thursday draft, there were some surprising developments nonetheless.

For one, heaviest bidding will likely be concentrated on second baseman Bobby Grich and outfielders Don Baylor and Joe Rudi, but not on Reggie Jackson, who has placed a $3 million price tag on his services. Like Grich, Rudi and Baylor, Jackson was taken by the full quota of 12 teams, but not until 14 rounds were completed.

There was much speculation prior to the draft that Jackson would wind up with the New York Yankees, but, again, George Steinbrenner, the Yankees' principal owner, was talking more about Grich and Baylor.

"We're thinking of Grich as a shortstop," said Steinbrenner, who has not protected either of his shortstops, Fred Stanley and Jim Mason, in today's expansion draft being to stock the American League's new Seattle and Toronto franchises. "As for Baylor, the reason we prefer him to Rudi is because of his speed. Our team is built around speed and he stole over 50 bases with Oakland this year."

Rudi, meanwhile, was taken by six different teams in the first round and his agent, Jerry Kapstein, who represents 11 of the 24 players available, was not surprised.

"I think the clubs recognized the fact Joe Rudi is the type of player who, besides being in his prime, can provide the stability that every ball club needs," said Kapstein.

There was no question that of all the clubowners, Finley stood the most to lose. Besides Rudi and Baylor, four other players from his Oakland A's—Gene

"As I've stated before," the controversial Oakland owner continued, "this is the worst thing that's ever happened to baseball. But I came out of it in pretty good shape. We were able to draft all the players we were interested in and we have just as good chance as anyone in getting our players back. It's going to take the best offer."

SPORTS TODAY

Tenace, Sal Bando, Rollie Fingers and Bert Campaneris—were each drafted by 11 or more clubs.

"It was like of den of thieves all trying to cut one another's throats," said Finley, who provided a measure of humor to the proceedings by naming "Buck Jackson" (instead of Reggie) for his ninth round pick and then asked for 30 seconds grace before announcing his intention to retain negotiation rights to Fingers.

In addition to Grich, Baylor and Rudi, bidding is most likely to be extremely fierce for Cincinnati Reds' left-hander Don Gullett, San Francisco Giants' outfielder Gary Matthews, Baltimore Orioles' righthander Wayne Garland and Campbell, the Minnesota Twins' relief ace who won 17 games this year. All of them were drafted by the 12-team allotment after six rounds.

The Los Angeles Dodgers were particularly hopeful of signing Gullett, while the Atlanta Braves are said to be close to having Matthews wrapped up. Garland was the first choice of the Cleveland Indians and they apparently will concentrate most of their efforts on signing the Orioles' 20-game winner.

Dodgers general manager Al Campanis, admittedly surprised to have found Jackson still available by the second round, hinted that Gullett would be a better bet to sign with his club.

"Jackson's putting such a high price tag on his head probably scared a lot of owners away," said Campanis. "We think Gullett is one of the best pitchers in baseball and his agent has indicated he has a preference for the west coast."

Jackson was the first player picked, taken by the Montreal Expos who expressed optimism about meeting his price.

"We're very positive in our feelings about signing Jackson," said Charles R. Bronfman, board chairman of the Expos. "We wouldn't have selected him first if we didn't feel we have an excellent chance of signing him."

Meanwhile, Jackson, at a news conference in Carlsbad, Calif., said he planned to talk with several clubs before making a decision. "I don't see any clubs I don't want to go with," he said. "But it's not just the money up front."

Despite the apparent madcap bidding in store for many of the free agents, Kapstein expressed doubt that future re-entry drafts would be conducted on such a grand scale.

"I don't think you'll see this many players available ever again," said Kapstein. "The clubs have been quietly signing everyone up with long term contracts."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, agreed.

"The owners said in spring training that there would be 100 free agents and we said that was an absurd figure," said Miller. "We estimated two dozen and we were right. I don't see that number changing significantly next year."

Campbell Cracks Down On Watson

MONTREAL (UPI) — Detroit Red Wings defenseman Bryan Watson is the first player to be suspended under the NHL's new "aggressor rule" and league president Clarence Campbell has made sure he won't forget it.

In one of the stiffest penalties ever imposed in his 30 years as NHL president, Campbell Thursday suspended Watson for 10 games for a fight with the Chicago Black Hawks Keith Magnuson in a game Oct. 30.

The 29-year-old, seven-year veteran defenseman with the Hawks suffered a broken jaw in the fight. Watson and two other Red Wings were ejected from the game at Olympia Stadium won by Chicago 4-1.

In suspending Watson without pay until after Nov. 21, Campbell said "players have no right to take the law into their own hands to effect retribution...such a philosophy would simply destroy efforts to produce orderly discipline."

The suspension was the first under the new NHL rule which states a player involved in a fight can be given a major and game misconduct penalty for being the aggressor and is plainly doing so for the purpose of intimidation or punishment.

In Detroit, Red Wings general manager Alex Delvecchio called the suspension "grossly excessive under the circumstances, but I will have to wait for formal documentation before making any further comments."

The NHL president said, however, his decision was carefully thought out on the basis of the facts surrounding the incident. Campbell got the details at a hearing in Detroit Wednesday.

He said midway through the third period of the Oct. 30 game, Watson attacked Magnuson after the Hawks' defenseman had high-sticked Mike Bloom of Detroit.

Campbell said referee John McCauley correctly assessed the game misconduct to Watson and a minor penalty on Magnuson for the high-sticking offense.

"It was contended on behalf of Watson that if the highsticking foul to Bloom had been called properly, the attack on Magnuson would not have happened," the NHL chief said.

"This of course is simply conjecture. But what is certain is that players have no right to take the law into their own hands to effect retribution on their own behalf much less so on behalf of their teammates."

"Such a philosophy would simply destroy all efforts to produce orderly discipline."

In addition to the 10-game suspension, the 31-year old Watson must pay the automatic $100 fine for the misconduct penalty.

The suspension was among the stiffest penalties Campbell has handed out since he became NHL president in 1966.

In 1965, he suspended the Montreal Canadiens Maurice "Rocket" Richard for three regular season and 12 playoff games. In 1969-70, Ted Green was suspended for 13 games for a stick-fight with Wayne Maki and two years ago Dave Forbes of Boston was suspended for 10 games.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Penguins have suspended moody center Pierre Larouche, who scored 53 goals and 111 points last season, for breaking team rules.

In announcing the indefinite suspension Thursday night, Baz Bastien, Penguins' assistant general manager, said "we have one set of rules and they're for everybody."

The suspension came after the Penguins had sent the 20-year-old Larouche, youngest player in National Hockey League history to score 50 goals in one season, to the Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League, apparently as a disciplinary measure.

No Orr Homecoming

By United Press International

Before the season, the date November 4th on the Boston Bruins schedule may have been circled in red by many of the Bruins' fans. It would be the day when the Chicago Black Hawks and former Bruins' superstar Bobby Orr would be in town.

Well, the Black Hawks made it, were stunned by two three-goal outbursts in a total of just four minutes, but Bobby Orr, hospitalized once again with a knee ailment and out for 2-3 weeks, couldn't be there.

Peter McNab connected on the first hat trick of his three-year National Hockey League career while Jean Ratelle added two more goals in the Bruins' 7-5 victory. Don Marcotte and Gregg Sheppard also scored for the Bruins, who lead their division with a 10-3 record and 20 points.

Pit Martin had two goals for Chicago, while Darcy Rota had one score and three assists. Grant Mulvey and Dick Redmond accounted for the other Chicago goals.

The Bruins tallied three times within 2:14 of the first period, with McNab getting a pair 10 seconds apart at 8:47 and 8:57. But Rota, who opened the scoring at 5:48, set up both Mulvey and Martin to force a 3-3 tie.

Redmond scored 44 seconds into the middle period but Boston won the game with three goals in a 1:47 span midway through the period. Marcotte tied the game at 8:36. McNab completed his hat trick — kicking up his 12th goal—at 10:02 and Sheppard got the game winner at 10:23 from in front of Tony Esposito.

In addition to Orr, the Black Hawks were playing without Stan Mikita, Keith Magnuson, Dennis Hull and Bill White, all out with injuries.

In the only other NHL game Thursday night, Buster Harvey scored his fifth goal of the season to give the Detroit Red Wings a 3-2 victory over Philadelphia, the Flyers' first loss in nine games.

Harvey's goal at 9:21 of the third period, off a two-way passing play with Dennis Hextall, came between goals by Philadelphia's Gary Dornhoefer, his fourth, and Mel Bridgman, his sixth.

Nick Libett and Dan Maloney gave Detroit a 2-0 lead in the first two periods. Libett's third goal and Maloney's sixth both came on power plays, breaking a spell where the Red Wings had only been successful on one of 27 power plays.

The Red Wings broke a two-game losing streak at home and it was the Flyers' first loss after six wins and two ties.

In WHA action, Blair MacDonald and Michel Parizeau each slammed in two goals as the Indianapolis Racers romped over the Cincinnati Stingers 5-2. Mark Napier and Jeff Jacques each scored one goal to lead the Birmingham Bulls to a 5-3 victory over the Phoenix Roadrunners, and two third period goals by Ron Chipperfield gave the Calgary Cowboys a 4-2 victory over the Edmonton Oilers.

AL Protects Young Talent From Seattle, Toronto Teams

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some shrewd roster-shuffling designed to protect the more coveted younger players has caused the Toronto Blue Jays and Seattle Mariners to revise their game plan today in the American League expansion draft.

At first, it was generally conceded both the Blue Jays and the Mariners would concentrate on youth and the future, while passing up the more familiar names made available to them by the 12 established American League clubs. But upon closer inspection, most of those youngsters—fringe major leaguers and highly-touted minor leaguers—have been protected on the 15-player lists after all.

"The clubs have done an excellent job of protecting their younger players," said Lou Gorman, Director of Player Personnel for the Mariners. "I couldn't have done a better job if I was on the other side."

"We wanted to go with youth instead of veteran players," said Peter Bavasi, general manager of the Blue Jays, "but now we'll have to change our thinking. There just isn't that much talent available." Some perfect examples of what Gorman and Bavasi meant are the Baltimore Orioles, Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees. The Orioles have protected their two minor league All-Star infielders, Rich Dauer and Kiko Garcia, while leaving unprotected "old folks" like Paul Blair, Brooks Robinson and Dave Duncan.

Similarly, the Yankees' young pitchers, Ron Guidry and Ken Clay, aren't expected to be available either, having been kept over more familiar major leaguers like Grant Jackson, Dick Tidrow and Carlos May. The Indians, meanwhile, reportedly have protected their two young catching prospects, Alan Ashby and Rick Cerone, while exposing veteran Ray Fosse, a .301 hitter this year.

The Boston Red Sox are known to have protected two highly-regarded minor league pitchers, Bob Stanley and Don Aase, even though the latter was sidelined with arm trouble this season. Probably the first Boston player selected will be 25-year-old utility infielder Steve Dillard.

"We were going to try and get as many good young players as possible with some veterans for stability," said Gorman. "We will still go for strength up the middle. We're looking for a good catcher, shortstop and left-handed pitching. But they're in the shortest supply."

Among the "name" players known to be available include veteran designated hitter Rico Carty, who hit .309 with 83 RBI's for Cleveland this year; Lou Piniella, the Yankees' DH-right fielder, who batted .284 in a comeback season; Indians' outfielder Charlie Spikes, who hit a disappointing .234 this season; and Boston catcher Bob Montgomery.

One particular side effect of the draft is baseball's "10-and-5" rule which gives veterans with 10 years experience, the last five with the same club, the right to veto any trade or sale. Boston's Carl Yastrzemski has already declared he would refuse a draft by Toronto or Seattle and, as such, the Red Sox have left him unprotected.

A similar case is New York left fielder Roy White, who could also be left unprotected with the knowledge he would refuse to switch clubs—thus giving the Yankees the luxury of protecting another minor leaguer such as shortstop Mickey Klutts.

Cavs Claim Two Distinctions

By United Press International

The Cleveland Cavaliers can claim two distinctions in the National Basketball Association today: the best record in the league and the best No. 6 player.

The Cavaliers swept to their seventh victory without a loss Thursday night when they scored a 96-88 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks and once again it was "supersub" Campy Russell to the rescue.

Russell led the Cavaliers in scoring in pre-season play and seemed to have won a starting assignment. However, the Cavaliers still prefer to use him as a No. 6 player who can come off the bench and prove decisive.

That's what Russell did Thursday night when he scored 14 points in the fourth period after the Cavaliers and Bucks went into the final session tied at 63-63. The former Michigan star, now a third-year man, made four of six field goals and six free throws in the period. It was a three-point play by Russell with 4:08 left in the game that moved the Cavs into a five-point lead after the Bucks pulled to within 84-82 on Swen Nater's hook shot.

Russell had 22 points and Dick Snyder had 18 to lead the Cavaliers, who have a twogame lead over Houston in the NBA's Central Division, while Brian Winters led Milwaukee with 23. The Bucks played without Bob Dandridge and Elmore Smith, who were injured Wednesday night against Washington.

"We just didn't get going right away," said Russell after the game. "You don't think of winning streaks while you're playing. You just think of the game you're in."

The Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Golden State Warriors 101-96, and the Atlanta Hawks beat the Chicago Bulls 97-87, in the other NBA games.

76ers 101, Warriors 96
Coach Gene Shue scored the 400th victory of coaching career when the 76ers beat off a late challenge by the Warriors. The Warriors moved to within 97-96 with 15 seconds remaining but four free throws by George McGinnis sealed the triumph. Doug Collins scored 26 points and McGinnis had 22 for the 76ers while Rick Barry had 28 for the Warriors.

Hawks 97, Bulls 87
Joe Meriwether's 24 points paced the Hawks, whose 18-7 burst in the third period overcame a 10-point Chicago lead. The Hawks took the lead for the first time with 3:06 remaining in the third period and never relinquished it. Mickey Johnson and Artis Gilmore led the Bulls with 17 and 16 points, respectively.

Rookies Lead PGA Team Event

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — A couple of rookies, still mindful of their college rivalry, carry a piece of the lead into the second round of the $200,000 Disney World National PGA Team Championship today.

Woody Blackburn, 25, who went to the University of Florida, and Bill Kratzert, 24, a University of Georgia graduate, combined for a nine-under-par 63 Thursday to tie Jerry McGee and Allen Miller, one shot ahead of the field.

Kratzert and Blackburn were as fired up about the Georgia-Florida football game at Jacksonville Saturday as they are about the tournament.

"Maybe we'll be mad enough at each other that we'll make a lot of birdies," said the darkhaired Kratzert, who has won more than $21,000 since getting his Tournament Players card in June. He even went so far as to predict the outcome of the football game—"Georgia by 14."

McGee and Miller got their nine-under score primarily on the strength of Miller's game. The moon-faced Miller, another Georgia graduate, got six birdies to McGee's three.

"He played like (Ben) Hogan and I played like Donald Duck," said McGee, this year's No. 16 PGA money winner.

McGee said he and Miller, who never had teamed before, didn't decide to play together until last week. C "Look at all the money it's cost us," he joked.

The leaders have four teams breathing down their necks at eight-under-par 64:

youngsters Ben Crenshaw and Eddie Pearce; veterans Mason Rudolph and Dan Sikes; Joe Porter and Bob Zender; and Sam Adams and Don Iverson.

Arnold Palmer and Leonard Thompson head a list of eight teams tied two strokes back with seven-under-par 65s.

Dmefending champions Jim Colbert and Dean Refram were among a dozen teams that shot 66 in the opening round.

There are 104 two-man teams competing in this better-ball event, played over twoM courses at the sprawling Walt Disney World vacation park in Central Florida.

The winning teammates pocket $20,000 each in the tournament, which will be nationally televised (ABC) Saturday and Sunday.

KHS Defeats Jay in Volleyball

KINGSTON — Kingston High's volleyballers boosted their DCSL record to 12-3 Thursday by outlasting John Jay in a two-threeway battle at the Kate Walton Field House.

The Tigers won the opener, 15-5, lost, 15-6, then charged back to seal the match with a 15-10 decision in the final game.

"It was a real good match," said KHS coach Pat Burke. "There were some long volleys with a lot of nice saves—girls diving off the court and that sort of thing."

Julie Chavis and Lori Eaton wre outstanding for the winners who remained tied for second place with Saugerties in the standings. The regular season winds down with three more matches for Kingston next week.

In the junior varsity competition the Tigers also emerged with a two-of-three victory, 15-13, 8-15 and 15-11. Terri Dawson's serves helped KHS improve to 10-5.

Injuries Are of Concern to Pitt, Army Coaches

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Injuries to key players are a matter of concern for Pitt coach Johnny Majors and Army coach Homer Smith as they prepare their teams for Saturday's game at Pitt Stadium.

Majors' main concern is his high-powered offensive backfield. Four running backs are injured, including Heisman Trophy candidate Tony Dorsett, but Majors says Dorsett definitely will play against the Cadets. The others are uncertain.

On the Army side, Cadet quarterback Leamon Hall, the NCAA's sixth-ranked passer, is plagued by sore-arm problems that could hamper his performance.

And Hall's top receiver, tight end Clennie Brundidge, who has 43 receptions for 619 yards and five touchdowns, will not make the trip to Pittsburgh because of the death of his brother in an automobile accident in Florida.

The Cadets' offense is pegged on the passing of Hall, who has completed 125 of 258 attempts for 1,692 yards and 11 touchdowns, and the catching of Brundidge. But Army also banks on the running of Tony Pyne, the team's leading ground gainer with 402 yards and an average of 4.3.

Majors is not certain who will start for the Panthers at quarterback — injured Matt Cavanaugh or Tom Yewcic.

"If Cavanaugh is ready I'd like to give him a real good dose," Majors said. "The doctors and trainers say he is in no danger."

Majors said the status of Cavanaugh, sidelined since early in the season with an ankle injury, will depend on his "day-to-day" progress.

"All of our first four backs are hurt," said Majors. "Dorsett won't practice this week, but will play." Elliott Walker is a doubtful starter and Thom Sindewald also is injured. Bobby Hutton, although hurting, is expected to play.

"We may call on some of our young people if Sindewald can't play," Majors said.

Dorsett will be going after his ninth NCAA record— Archie Griffin's all-purpose rushing record, which includes rushing, passing, kickoff and punt returns. Dorsett is 38 yards short of Griffin's total of 6,003 yards.

No. 2 ranked Pitt puts an 8-0 record on the line against an improved Army team, 4-4 and off to its best start since 1972. The Cadets will be coming off a 24-7 victory over Air Force last weekend and Coach Smith is not about to let up for the Panthers.

Jumping Tie At Horse Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Springer, ridden by Ian Millar, and Wow, ridden by Barney Ward, tied for first place Thursday night in the Puissance Stakes high-jumping contest at the National Horse Show in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The wall was raised to seven feet before all of the other 15 entrants were eliminated. Robert Baskowitz's 5-year-old gelding, Ruxton, won the working hunter championship with 14 points, compared with 12 for Rally Dale, owned by F. Eugene Dixon Jr.

UAW and Chrysler Talk Fast

DETROIT(UPI) — Negotiators for the United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. zeroed in today on job-saving contract issues the union said must be resolved to avoid a strike by 118,000 U.S. and Canadian workers at 6 p.m. EST.

A Chrysler strike on the heels of a four-week walkout at Ford — where the industry pattern was set — would be unprecedented.

UAW Vice President Douglas A. Fraser said Thursday "frailties" in the current contract were brought out during the Chrysler's two-year slump. Some 55,100 workers — 44 per cent of the labor force — were idled at one point in 1975.

"Those two years — 1974 and 1975 — are sitting right at the bargaining table with us," Fraser said. "I can think of no unresolved issue that doesn't bear on the job security of Chrysler workers."

The union's leadership was concerned some workers would jump the gun in wildcat walkouts Fraser said "certainly will not help the talks here."

Workers at two Canadian plants said they planned to leave work before noon today to demonstrate dissatisfaction with the UAW leadership.

The UAW had a major problem off its hands with Thursday's announced tentative agreement on a new contract for 14,500 Ford of Canada workers, on strike since Wednesday at eight Ontario plants.

A Ford spokesman said if the membership votes during the weekend to accept the contract, the company will resume auto and truck production Monday.

At Chrysler, Fraser and UAW President Leonard Woodcock said the major job security problems still outstanding included three seniority issues; outside contracting that costs Chrysler workers jobs; and eligibility for holiday time.

But Fraser said "the nature of the issues is such that it doesn't take some complicated formula to arrive at a settlement. It just takes a yes or a no."

They said economic matters had been resolved, mainly because of the pattern-setting contract reached at Ford.

If you need 90 day money fast and your bank makes you see 90 people,

TELL IT TO THE MARINE

At Marine Midland, we realize that a slow bank is a bank that's not working hard enough for you. That's why our system is built for speed.

For instance, most of our loan officers have the power to give approvals on their own signatures. So we won't slow you down with a lot of conferences and calls and committees.

Another step we take is making sure our local people have a grasp of the community as well as the country. Over the last 125 years, we've learned how to anticipate local needs, whether they're seasonal or long term.

Besides that, a Marine Midland loan officer makes it his business to know your business. In fact, chances are that he already has experience in your industry. There's a good reason for this. Having the most branches in New York State gets us involved in practically every business in New York State.

So no matter how fast or how long you need money, just tell it to the Marine.

Britons 'Remember, The Fifth of November'

It's 'A Penny for The Guy' Day

By GAIL GREGG LONDON (UPI) — A red-haired friend approached me as I walked out of the piggaited 10-year-old and her subway terminal one evening this week.

"Penny for the Guy," they said, pointing to an odd, stuffed effigy propped against the side of a building. "Penny for the Guy?" I asked, as a newcomer to Britain. "What's your doll for?" They giggled and rolled their eyes. "Stupid grownup," whispered the redhead. Another grownup — a British grownup — supplied me with an explanation of this strange childhood ritual: "It's for Guy Fawkes' Day."

Today is the day. Guy Fawkes was convicted and hanged in 1605 for conspiring to blow up the British Parliament in the "Gunpowder Plot." He was one of many involved and one of the few to be caught. Although historians now agree that he was a scapegoat — he was Roman Catholic in days of religious intolerance — the popular acclaim that greeted the foiling of the conspiracy is still remembered each Nov. 5. "Remember, Remember, the fifth of November," sing British children, in what is now a nursery rhyme. With bonfires blazing and "Guys" burning in backyards and hillsides and fireworks displays up and down the country, it is the nearest the British get to a July 4th carnival. The children begging for pennies at nearly every British bus and subway terminal are collecting pennies for their Nov. 5 fireworks. It's a colorful celebration — and a uniquely British one. But it has come under criticism from government safety officials. The National Campaign for Firework Reform charges that over 4,000 people are injured by the incendiaries each Guy Fawkes Day — and most of them are under 13.

LEGAL NOTICE

ULSTER COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH
300 FLATBUSH AVENUE
KINGSTON, NEW YORK 12401
TELEPHONE 331-9300

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PERMIT TO DISCHARGE UNDER PROVISIONS OF NEW YORK STATE POLLUTANT DISCHARGE ELIMINATION SYSTEM APPLICATION NO. NY 0149578

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Titles 7 & 8 of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State for the administration of and the issuance of permits under said Law, Charles Roscoli & Barbara Abrahams, Roscoli 123, High Falls, N.Y. 12440 has filed a permit application with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation at Ulster County Health Department, 300 Flatbush Avenue, Kingston, New York 12401, where the application and related documents are available for public inspection. The applicant proposes to discharge a total of 2,000 gallons per day of effluent into groundwaters at the applicant's facility located on Route 213 and 213A, High Falls, where the applicant will construct a retention pond.

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation tentatively intends to issue a State Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (SPDES) permit to the applicant (dischargee). A final issuance will follow: (1) review of the application to assure compliance with all applicable provisions of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State, (2) development of special conditions setting forth specific effluent limitations and other controls applicable to the discharges described above including schedules of compliance, (3) development of monitoring and reporting requirements, (4) consideration of the applicant's comments on the proposed permit, and (5) final issuance of the permit.

Any person interested in this application who wishes to comment thereon or become an interested party in any proceeding regarding this application must notify the undersigned stating specific areas of interest on or before December 6, 1976, Mr. Kenneth Kwik, DEC, 21 South Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, New York, 12561.

All such written comments will be retained by the Department and considered in the final determination. Any interested party will be eligible to be heard if a public hearing is ultimately held in connection with this application.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mr. Edward Kahil, Ulster County Health Department at 331-9300, ext. 213.

STATE OF NEW YORK ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PERMIT TO DISCHARGE UNDER PROVISIONS OF NEW YORK STATE POLLUTANT DISCHARGE ELIMINATION SYSTEM APPLICATION NO. NY 009281, ROTROCK COMPANY, DIVISION (OLIVE PLANT), OLIVE (T), ULSTER COUNTY

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Titles 7 & 8 of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State for the administration of and the issuance of permits under said Law, Rotrock, Inc., Hasbrouck Lane, Westerlo, N.Y. 12194, Mr. Clyde J. Deavers, V.P. & Gen. Mgr., has filed an application to discharge 17,500 gallons per day of treated sanitary wastes into a tributary to Ashokan Reservoir from a wastewater treatment facility and 100,800 gallons per day of cooling water into a tributary of Ashokan Reservoir from an outlet at the applicant's facility located on DuBois Road, Shokan, N.Y. 12481.

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation tentatively intends to issue a State Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (SPDES) permit to the applicant (dischargee). A final issuance will follow: (1) review of the application to assure compliance with all applicable provisions of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State and all applicable provisions of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-500); (2) development of special conditions setting forth specific effluent limitations and other controls applicable to the discharges described above including schedules of compliance; (3) development of monitoring and reporting requirements for the applicant; (4) consideration of the applicant's comments on the proposed permit, and (5) final issuance of the permit.

Any person interested in this application who wishes to comment thereon or become an interested party in any proceeding regarding this application must notify the undersigned stating specific areas of interest on or before November 29, 1976.

All such written comments will be retained by the Department and considered in the final determination. Any interested party will be eligible to be heard if a public hearing is ultimately held in connection with this application.

Further information may be obtained from the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, P.D.E.S. Permit Section, Room 201, 90 Wolf Road, New York 12233, (A.C. 518, 457-4125), where the application and related documents are available for public inspection.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGE IN TELEPHONE COMPANY SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following change in regulations became effective October 15, 1976, pursuant to Orders of the Public Service Commission, dated August 20, September 1, and October 15, 1976 in Case 26775:

Credits for Telephone Instruments

When a Company telephone is not provided in connection with a subscriber's service listed herein, and the charge for the service contemplates the provision of a Company telephone, a monthly credit as specified below shall be applied to the monthly charge bill to the subscriber for such service:

Individual, Auxiliary and Party Lines, Extensions, PBX Systems, Dial Communications, Service Stations, Centrex Stations, Centralized Switching Services, Stations, Additions, Flat Rate, Payphone, Payphone Service, Civilian Defense, Group Emergency Calling Service, Public Emergency Reporting Service, Universal Emergency Telephone Service, Volunteer Emergency Organization.

a. Where a line terminates in subscriber-provided equipment, connected under a tariff regulations and a Company telephone is not furnished, the amount of the monthly credit to be applied to the applicable monthly charge for that line shall be the same as the monthly rate for an extension (residence), $1.75, or business, $2.98, as appropriate.

b. Where the number of lines exceeds the number of stations in a telephone system furnished by the Company, the amount of the monthly credit shall be $1.00 per each excess line.

c. The credit applicable when a line terminates in a data access arrangement (CDS or CBT), and a Company telephone is not furnished, remains at $1.00.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PERMIT TO DISCHARGE UNDER PROVISIONS OF NEW YORK STATE POLLUTANT DISCHARGE ELIMINATION SYSTEM APPLICATION NO. NY 0149578

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Titles 7 & 8 of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State for the administration of and the issuance of permits under said Law, Charles Roscoli & Barbara Abrahams, Roscoli 123, High Falls, N.Y. 12440 has filed a permit application with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation at Ulster County Health Department, 300 Flatbush Avenue, Kingston, New York 12401, where the application and related documents are available for public inspection. The applicant proposes to discharge a total of 2,000 gallons per day of effluent into groundwaters at the applicant's facility located on Route 213 and 213A, High Falls, where the applicant will construct a retention pond.

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation tentatively intends to issue a State Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (SPDES) permit to the applicant (dischargee). A final issuance will follow: (1) review of the application to assure compliance with all applicable provisions of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State, (2) development of special conditions setting forth specific effluent limitations and other controls applicable to the discharges described above including schedules of compliance, (3) development of monitoring and reporting requirements, (4) consideration of the applicant's comments on the proposed permit, and (5) final issuance of the permit.

Any person interested in this application who wishes to comment thereon or become an interested party in any proceeding regarding this application must notify the undersigned stating specific areas of interest on or before December 6, 1976, Mr. Kenneth Kwik, DEC, 21 South Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, New York, 12561.

All such written comments will be retained by the Department and considered in the final determination. Any interested party will be eligible to be heard if a public hearing is ultimately held in connection with this application.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mr. Edward Kahil, Ulster County Health Department at 331-9300, ext. 213.

Druggists Warned on Boycott

NEW YORK (UPI) — Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz has warned pharmacists against continuing or furthering a boycott against the filling of Medicaid prescriptions.

Lefkowitz said he has instructed his office's Anti-Monopolies Bureau to look into reports on the boycott. He said Thursday his office has been in contact with the State Social Services Department to determine the extent and impact of the druggists' action.

"If my office finds that pharmacists have engaged in unlawful conduct, we will take appropriate action under the Donnelly Act, the state's antitrust law," Lefkowitz said.

Some pharmacists in the state have refused to fill Medicaid prescriptions in protest over federal reimbursement rates for the drugs. The action started a month ago because, pharmacists say, they are losing money on each prescription.

Jerome Sager, executive director of the Empire City Pharmaceutical Society, which represents about 1,000 pharmacists in the city, said he was not aware of Lefkowitz's action, but he doubted there were grounds for an anti-trust suit. "The only way they can ever maintain a lawsuit against our actions is to show collusive action among the pharmacists of the state. If there were a combining force, I would agree that it would be antitrust action."

But, Sager said a U.S. Justice Department attorney filed an opinion last year that dissemination of information about a boycott by a trade association would not constitute antitrust activity.

Sager estimated about 85 per cent of New York City's pharmacists are taking part in the boycott.

Says He'll Work Against Northeast Bias

Moynihan Pledges Change in Economy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Senator-elect Daniel P. Moynihan says he'll work to reverse federal economic policies which have discriminated against the Northeast.

Moynihan told a news conference Thursday that New York's progressive social policies should be extended nationwide.

The state's first Democratic senator-elect since the late Robert Kennedy — he defeated incumbent James Buckley, CRN.Y., in Tuesday's election — said he will work to bring back federal dollars which for two generations have gone to the South and West.

Moynihan said his other top priorities were maintaining New York City's fiscal stability and obtaining federal guarantees for its debt, welfare reform and measures to deal with the rising Medicaid burden on states and localities.

He said he had discussed the city's financial picture earlier in the day with Mayor Abraham Beame and Stuart Eisenstadt, adviser to Jimmy Carter, but did not disclose the substance of the conversations.

Moynihan, whose vociferous defense of America rocked the United Nations but won praise of millions in the United States, indicated he had no intention of toning himself down as a freshman senator.

"I do not think the people of this state elected me in the expectation that I would go down and be a dutiful freshman for six years and then in my second term commence to speak to the issues of interest to our state," he said.

The Harvard professor had kind words for another outspoken senator-elect, Republican S.I. Hayakawa, who defeated Democratic incumbent John Tunney in California.

"I regret the loss of a Democrat," Moynihan said, "but I welcome that grand man."

SPA Told To Guard Ecology

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Public Service Commission today ordered the State Power Authority to meet several conditions to minimize environmental damage during its construction of an ultra-high voltage line through Northern New York.

The line will bring low-cost hydro-electric power from Canada to New York City.

The commission previously had granted the authority permission to begin construction on the 765,000-volt line prior to completion of hearings on the probable health and safety effects of the unusually high voltage.

The latest order was designed to limit environmental damage caused by the actual construction of the line.

At the same time, the commission announced that a staff investigation of complaints by residents along the right-of-way now being cleared "had not found any condition which justified withdrawing or withholding commission approval of the ... site clearing or construction activity."

A group called UPSET Inc. had submitted the complaint about excessive noise and environmental damage caused by the construction on the line from Fort Covington, Quebec through Massena to Marcy.

The commission order directed the authority to:

- Modify construction plans at seven specific sites or explain how it would minimize environmental damage.
- Comply with limits on construction noise during evening or nighttime hours or file waivers from local residents with the commission 10 days in advance.
- Inform the commission of any future complaints received.
- File proof within 30 days that it has notified owners of all dwellings along the right-of-way of the options available regarding relocation or demolition of the structures.

Oks Tax Bonus

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame has signed a law giving property tax credits to businessmen who construct new commercial buildings or renovate old ones.

At a signing ceremony at City Hall Thursday, Beame said the new law will "attract major employers because it provides the kind of development incentives offered by municipalities elsewhere."

The measure provides that a property owner who renovates a building will get a tax reduction of 95 per cent of the difference between the assessed valuation of a building before and after renovation. That tax break will decline by 5 per cent a year for 19 years.

A businessman who puts up a new building will be given a tax break of 50 per cent of the difference of the assessed valuation of the property before and after the building was put up. That break will decrease by 5 per cent a year over 10 years.

Beame said the law, which takes effect in 60 days, will help business and also create construction jobs.

"Moreover," the mayor added, "its long-range effect will be to increase the productivity and competitiveness of existing city firms by making it economically feasible for companies to modernize and upgrade old or obsolete plants."
